OMNIPLEX provides personnel security background investigations and investigative support services, including pre-employment screening and adjudications support, for many Government and private clients and is considered the standard bearer within the Intelligence Community for background investigation services, processes, and tools. OMNIPLEX's experience with the personnel security function includes managing the entire process of the background investigation for clearances, applying quality control measures to ensure integrity and accuracy, preparing high quality investigative reports, collecting noteworthy information for adjudicators, and delivering completed cases for review by the customer's adjudication facility. We have also developed proprietary systems such as our Investigation Resource Management Application (IRMA®), a case management system designed specifically for this industry to manage the end-to-end background investigation process for the Intelligence Community and other government agencies.

Our business unit, OMNISEC International Investigations, Inc., began performing background investigations for the Government in 1995 on a contract from the U.S. Agency for International Development (AID). Contracts with other Federal agencies such as the U.S. Postal Service, Defense Intelligence Agency, Defense Security Service, Department of Homeland Security, and intelligence community customers followed as our reputation for quality and fast performance spread.

Qualifications to Perform Background Investigations

OMNIPLEX is uniquely qualified in the area of performing pre-employment screening and background investigations. We utilize over 2,000 investigators (both employee and contractor investigators) nationwide with experience conducting background investigations (SSBIs; SSBI-PRs; LACs; others per customer requirements) to meet the highest standards of the U.S. Federal Government. We provide a full range of services ranging from full scope background investigations to limited investigations including such items as criminal conviction checks, employment, education, residences, credit, driving, and references.

OMNIPLEX has conducted hundreds of thousands of personnel security background investigations encompassing millions of leads for Federal Government clients. Investigations are tailored to the exacting requirements of each client agency, and relate to applicants and current employees of these agencies, as well as employees of outside contractors, who must have access to classified national security information.

On every project, we provide a project manager who is the day-to-day point of contact with our clients, to get their feedback and to give each client the support and service they need when they need it. In addition, we have personnel specially dedicated to quality control and issue resolution to ensure the highest quality deliverables and that any customer concerns are addressed in a timely, thorough, and effective manner. Customer satisfaction is a continuous guiding principle in our operations.

OMNIPLEX full service background investigations follow general, basic, coverage standards. Customized investigations can be developed for specific agency requirements, with appropriate negotiated price adjustments for increased service requirements. Performance incentives, accelerated service, and cancelation schedules may also be negotiated in accordance with individual agency needs. Any percentage factors for such areas will be applied to the agency specific prices negotiated for each schedule order. Additional unique agency conditions, including but not limited to items such as reporting requirements, staff training, investigator limitations, or special clearances, may also impact full service investigations delivery and prices terms established for each schedule order.

In addition to full service background investigations, OMNIPLEX offers timely, thorough, and reliable pre-employment screening services to assist human resources and security professionals. Our experts in employment screening and credential verification can assist in recruiting potential employees that meet the requirements for the honest, well qualified, capable work force needed to compete in today's fast moving economy.
